

Some House Rules For Our YouTube Channel

Bendix is committed to providing a community that fosters open interaction and collaboration and is respectful to others. We encourage you to leave comments, ask questions, and respond to our YouTube videos. However, we ask all viewers to be respectful of others by complying with YouTube's terms and policies as well as the Bendix House Rules.

We will review all comments and remove any material that is:

- Abusive, violent, defamatory, inflammatory, or threatening
- Inappropriate, racist, sexually explicit, obscene, or offensive
- Unlawful or encouraging of a criminal offence
- False, fraudulent, deceptive, or misleading
- Off-topic, unrelated to Bendix, or includes links to third parties
- Supportive of political or religious activism
- Infringing on copyrighted material
- Using extreme language or personal attacks on another person
- Invasive of personal privacy (personal information) or of another's privacy or publicity rights

Any content which falls under these categories, is not in accordance with YouTube terms and policies, or is deemed inappropriate for the Bendix YouTube community will be deleted or hidden from the view of other users without prior notification. The content posted by viewers on this site does not necessarily reflect the views or opinions of Bendix. Bendix is not responsible for any material contained in links directing to third party content or websites.

By interacting with the Bendix YouTube channel and its videos, you agree to allow Bendix to use your content (including your user ID and photo and product ideas) in any manner, with your permission, but without any obligation or compensation to you.